

New Investigators Grant Writing Institutes: The CAREER Academy

http://www.research.vcu.edu/vpr/grant_writing/index.htm

The Virginia Commonwealth University CAREER Academy was launched in 2013 to provide year-long, intensive proposal development training to VCU faculty who would apply to the National Science Foundation's Faculty Early Career Development Program (CAREER) within two years. The training program brings together an interdisciplinary cohort of researchers to build skills in competitive proposal development, learn and practice effective communication to diverse audiences, and participate in ongoing critical review. In 2014, the CAREER Academy was expanded into New Investigators Grant Writing Institutes (GWI), which are funded and coordinated by the VCU Office of the Vice President for Research and Innovation.

2013-2014 CAREER Academy Cohort

Dr. Marco Aldi
Department of Mathematics and Applied Mathematics

Dr. Quentin Alexander
Department of
Counselor Education

Dr. Indika Arachchige
Department of Chemistry

Dr. Tom Arodz
Department of
Computer Science

Dr. Xi Chen
Department of Statistical Sciences & Operations Research

Dr. Daniel Conway
Department of Biomedical Engineering

Dr. Amanda Dickinson
Department of Biology

Dr. Christopher Lemmon
Department of Biomedical Engineering

Dr. Daniel McGarvey
Center for Environmental Studies

Dr. Rene Olivares-Navarrete
Department of Biomedical Engineering

Dr. Christine Trinter
Department of Teaching and Learning